mark 4 11 12 the parable theory passage has probably been commented upon more often than any other section of mark s gospel the saying has usually been interpreted as an authentic utterance of jesus which was subsequently misunderstood and misinterpreted by early christians including the evangelist mark the precise meaning of the mystery logion in the ministry of jesus is notoriously elusive since we have no information about the context in which it was spoken or about the audience to which it was addressed much more however can be known about the interpretative context of the logion in mark since it is surrounded by passages that seem to echo the mystery saying this study examines the complex web of literary relationships between mark 4 11 12 and the gospel as a whole dr beavis s fresh interpretation is unusual in that she undertakes to interpret the gospel of mark as far as possible from the point of view of its historical readers audience chapters 1 and 2 of the book attempt to describe the community for which the gospel was written and in the rest of the book this socio cultural setting is used to investigate the meaning of the mystery saying for the original readers hearers of mark

how did the gospel of mark come to exist and how was the memory of jesus shaped by the experiences of the earliest christians for centuries biblical scholars examined texts as history literature theology or even as story curiously absent however has been attention to processes of collective memory in the creation of biblical texts drawing on modern explorations of social memory sandra huebenthal presents a model for reading biblical texts as collective memories she demonstrates that the gospel of mark is a text evolving from collective narrative memory based on recollections of jesus s life and teachings huebenthal investigates the principles and structures of how groups remember and how their memory is structured and presented in the case of mark s gospel this includes examining which image of jesus as well as which authorial self image this text as memory constructs reading mark s gospel as a text from collective memory serves less as a key to unlock questions about the historical jesus and more as an examination of memory about him within a particular community providing a new and important framework for interpreting the earliest canonical gospel in context
