the fall of the house of usher shows poe s ability to create an emotional tone in his work specifically feelings of fear doom and guilt these emotions center on roderick usher who like many poe characters suffers from an unnamed disease like the narrator in the tell tale heart his disease inflames his hyperactive senses the illness manifests physically but is based in roderick s mental or even moral state he is sick it is suggested because he expects to be sick based on his family s history of illness and is therefore essentially a hypochondriac similarly he buries his sister alive because he expects to bury her alive creating his own self fulfilling prophecy the house of usher itself doubly referring both to the actual structure and the family plays a significant role in the story it is the first character that the narrator introduces to the reader presented with a humanized description its windows are described as eye like twice in the first paragraph the fissure that develops in its side is symbolic of the decay of the usher family and the house dies along with the two usher siblings this connection was emphasized in roderick s poem the haunted palace which seems to be a direct reference to the house that foreshadows doom seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject american studies literature grade a university of graz language english abstract there is a certain clever rhetoric from the buried protagonist in the introduction the premature burial edgar allan poe s tale the boundaries which divide life from death are at best shadowy and vague who shall say where the one ends and the other begins poe 322 as he finds himself buried in what he believes to be a coffin as the story starts to intrigue us with one of the most terrifying and arguably uncanny experiences live burial the narrator is obsessed a walking dead man who eventually saves himself from the terrifying experience and exaggerated fear but not from the uncanny feeling it is as much dreadful as when we as readers perceive the buried alive lady madeline usher breaking the vault steel door of her coffin uttering eerie sounds and appearing bloody at her brother roderick s door in poe s even more gruesome tale the fall of the house of usher the protagonists too are quite different as are the representations of the motive of live burial in both stories one hand we deal with as this essay will try and prove an evident incestuous relationship and perhaps roderick s certain repressed wishes and on the other hand the exaggerated almost satiric general fear of a seemingly cataleptic state and death the fall of the house of usher by edgar allan poe the fall of the house of usher is a short story by edgar allan poe first published in 1839 the story begins with the unnamed narrator arriving at the house of his friend roderick usher having received a letter from him in a distant part of the country complaining of an illness and asking for his help although poe wrote this short story before the invention of modern psychological science roderick s condition can be described according to its terminology it includes a form of sensory overload known as hyperesthesia hypersensitivity to light sounds smells and tastes hypochondria an excessive preoccupation or worry about having a serious illness and acute anxiety it is revealed that roderick s twin sister madeline is also ill and falls into cataleptic deathlike trances the narrator is impressed with roderick s paintings and attempts to cheer him by reading with him and listening to his improvised musical compositions on the guitar roderick sings the haunted palace then tells the narrator that he believes the house he lives in to be alive and that this sentience arises from the arrangement of the masonry and vegetation surrounding it roderick later informs the narrator that his sister has died and insists that she be entombed for two weeks in a vault family tomb in the house before being permanently buried the narrator helps roderick put the body in the tomb and he notes that madeline has rosy cheeks as some do after death they inter her but over the next week both roderick and the narrator find themselves becoming increasingly agitated for no apparent reason a storm begins roderick comes to the narrator s bedroom which is situated directly above the vault and throws open his window to the storm he notices that the tarn surrounding the house seems to glow in the dark as it glowed in roderick usher s paintings although there is no lightning this is an annotated version of the book 1 contains an updated biography of the author at the end of the book for a better understanding of the text 2 this book has been checked and corrected for spelling errors during the whole of a dull dark and soundless day in the autumn of the year when the clouds hung oppressively low in the heavens i had been passing alone on horseback through a singularly dreary tract of country and at length found myself as the shades of the evening drew on within view of the melancholy house of usher i know not how it was but with the first glimpse of the building a sense of insufferable gloom pervaded my spirit i say insufferable for the feeling was unrelieved by any of that half-pleasurable because poetic sentiment with which the mind usually receives even the sternest natural images of the desolate or terrible i looked upon the scene before me upon the mere house and the simple landscape features of the domain upon the bleak walls upon the vacant eye-like windows upon a few rank sedges and upon a few whitetrunks of decayed trees with an utter depression of soul which i can compare to no earthly sensation more properly than to the after-dream of the reveller upon opium the bitter lapse into everyday life the hideous dropping off of the veil there was an iciness a sinking a sickening of the heart an unredeemed dreariness of thought which no goading of the imagination could torture into aught of the sublime what was it i paused to think what was it that so unnerved me in the contemplation of the house of usher it was a mystery all insoluble nor could i grapple with the shadowy fancies that crowded upon me as i pondered i was forced to fall back upon the unsatisfactory conclusion that while beyond doubt there are combinations of very simple natural objects which have the power of thus affecting us still the analysis of this power lies among considerations beyond our depth it was possible i reflected that a mere different arrangement of the particulars of the scene of the details of the picture would be sufficient to modify or perhaps to annihilate its capacity for sorrowful impression and acting upon this idea i reined my horse to the precipitous brink of a black and lurid tarn that lay in unruffled lustre by the dwelling and gazed down but with a shudder even more thrilling than before upon the remodelled and inverted images of the grey sedge and the ghastly tree stems and the vacant and eye-like windows nevertheless in this mansion of gloom i now proposed to myself a sojourn of some weeks its proprietor roderick usher had been one of my boon companions in boyhood but many years had elapsed since our last meeting a letter however had lately reached me in a distant part of the country a letter from him which in its wildly importunate nature had admitted of no other than a personal reply the ms gave evidence of nervous agitation the writer spoke of acute bodily illness of a mental disorder which oppressed him and of an earnest desire to see me as his best and indeed his only personal friend with a view of attempting by the cheerfulness of my society some alleviation of his malady it was the manner in which all this and much more was said it was the apparent heart that went with his request which allowed me no room for hesitation and i accordingly obeyed forthwith what i still considered a very singular summons although as boys we had been even intimate associates yet i really knew little of my friend his reserve had been always excessive and habitual i was aware however that his veryancient family had been noted time out of mind for a peculiarsensibility of temperament displaying itself through long ages in many works of exalted art and manifested of late inrepeated deeds of munificent yet unobtrusive charity
