from the opening decades of the republic when political parties sponsored newspapers to current governmental practices that actively subsidize the collection and dissemination of the news the press and the government have been far from independent unlike those earlier days however the news is no longer produced by a diverse range of individual outlets but is instead the result of a collective institution that exercises collective power in explaining how the news media of today operate as an intermediary political institution akin to the party system and interest group system cook demonstrates how the differing media strategies used by governmental agencies and branches respond to the constitutional and structural weaknesses inherent in a separation of powers system cook examines the news media s capacity to perform the political tasks that they have inherited and points the way to a debate on policy solutions in order to hold the news media accountable without treading upon the freedom of the press should we try to live in the present such is the imperative of modernity jed rubenfeld writes in this important and original work of political theory since jefferson proclaimed that the earth belongs to the living since freud announced that mental health requires people to get free of their past since nietzsche declared that the happy man is the man who leaps into the moment modernity has directed its inhabitants to live in the present as if there alone could they find happiness authenticity and above all freedom but this imperative rubenfeld argues rests on a profoundly inadequate deforming picture of the relationship between freedom and time instead rubenfeld suggests human freedom human being itself necessarily extends into both past and future self government consists of giving our lives meaning and purpose over time from this conception of self government rubenfeld derives a new theory of constitutional law s place in democracy democracy he writes is not a matter of governance by the present will of the people it is a matter of a nation s laying down and living up to enduring political and legal commitments constitutionalism is not counter to democracy as many believe or a pre condition of democracy it is or should be democracy itself over time on this basis rubenfeld offers a new understanding of constitutional interpretation and of the fundamental right of privacy our human capacity for planning agency plays central roles in the cross temporal organization of our agency in our acting and thinking together both at a time and over time and in our self governance both at a time and over time intentions can be understood as states in such a planning system the practical thinking at the bottom of this planning capacity is guided by norms that enjoin synchronic plan consistency and means end coherence as well as forms of plan stability over time the essays in this book aim to deepen our understanding of these norms and to defend their status as norms of practical rationality for planning agents the general guidance by these planning norms has many pragmatic benefits especially given our cognitive and epistemic limits but appeal to these general pragmatic benefits does not fully explain the normative force of these norms in the particular case in response to this challenge some think these norms are at bottom norms of theoretical rationality on one s beliefs some think these norms are constitutive of intentional agency some think they are norms of interpretation and some think the idea of such norms of practical rationality is a myth these essays chart an alternative path this path sees these planning norms as tracking conditions of a planning agent s self governance both at a time and over time it seeks associated models of such self governance and it appeals to the idea that the end of one s self governance over time while not essential to intentional agency per se is within the planning framework rationally self sustaining and a keystone of a rationally stable reflective equilibrium that involves the norms of plan rationality this end is thereby in a position to play a role in our planning framework that parallels the role of a concern with quality of will within the framework of the reactive emotions as understood by peter strawson in a tempestuous narrative that sweeps across five continents and seven centuries this book explains how a succession of catastrophes from the devastating black death of 1350 through the coming climate crisis of 2050 has produced a relentless succession of rising empires and fading world orders during the long centuries of iberian and british imperial rule the quest for new forms of energy led to the development of the colonial sugar plantation as a uniquely profitable kind of commerce in a time when issues of race and social justice have arisen with pressing urgency the book explains how the plantation s extraordinary profitability relied on a production system that literally worked the slaves to death creating an insatiable appetite for new captives that made the african slave trade a central feature of modern capitalism for over four centuries after surveying past centuries roiled by imperial wars national revolutions and the struggle for human rights the closing chapters use those hard won insights to peer through the present and into the future by rendering often opaque environmental science in lucid prose the book explains how climate change and changing world orders will shape the life opportunities for younger generations born at the start of this century during the coming decades that will serve as the signposts of their lives 2030 2050 2070 and beyond
